

For Serena, the Sugar Plummy Fairy, Christmas was the best time of year. It was just a month away and she was busily preparing for Christmas Eve, when it was her responsibility to ensure that sugar plums danced around in children's heads, just like in the famous Christmas stories. A few of the fairies who had assisted her in previous years had gotten their own permanent job postings in Fairy Land and it meant that Serena was short-staffed. She needed to come up with a way to recruit some help for the Christmas season. As she walked down the street on her way to her office in the Fairy Headquarters building, she smelled something so delicious, that she could resist finding out where it was coming it.
